

Self reflection

I was very excited about this international project. I think it's very important to share our ideas and culture with different countries and know how they work with children. I really liked that we were in the nature and discovered it like children. I learnt a lot of things like other countries' culture, games in the nature, how to work together even if we don't agree with each other. I have a lot of wonderful new friends and a lot of good experience with them and children also. We learnt about how to make instruments with natural materials and how to use nature. We can find a lot of things there and some of us didn't recognize it before. We had forgotten how beautiful the world is where we live. Children can learn that without nature there is no life possible. It was a lot of work but I feel it was two weeks holiday.

I really enjoyed all evenings because every evening there were different kinds of countries that had prepared the evening to show us their culture and one of their special food. It's interesting how different our culture are, but the people are the same. With the children we also can do something similar if we have children in our group from another country. I think it's very important to teach the children about other cultures.

I really liked the activity with the paper CD when we had to listen to the nature and after draw what we had heard, how close and how loud it was. I liked it because we never do it alone but it's very interesting and that there is no silence and how many kinds of sounds we can hear. I also liked the game when we were blind and we had to lead the other people in the forest because you have to trust your partner but it's not easy if you don't know him/ her well. And you can also discover nature even if you don't see it by touching and feeling. It was wonderful to see the children enjoying the activities in the nature.

Dobri Kinga (Hungary - Vacs)