

Personal reflection

Personal

Those 2 weeks I spent with students and teachers from different countries made me grow from the inside. Many things that happened here helped to release better what kind of personality I am. It's a really wonderful feeling to use your experience, gain new fresh ideas. Many emotions, laugh and positive moments, funny cultural evenings, that's what brought everybody together, that's why we became so connected to each other. I'm really happy to be here and to catch so much experience and to be able to share them with people around me.

Professional

From the professional side I realized that you can use nature as a tool for activities with children, also with teenagers. A lot of small things were around me, I just didn't recognize them. To explore – that what's interesting not only for children, but also for me. It's really great to give some magic to simple things. I hope that I will use in my job the ideas, activities, games I got here and I will show children that nature is actually a magical place. Maybe that was not really my area, but now I think, I can transfer some of them to my specialty (social educator).

Senses are our secret gun!

Intercultural

No matter from where you are, which language you speak communication can't disappear if you are really trying to make connections. Different cultures, traditions made us realize how different we are, but those differences didn't stop us from working together. I met a lot of interesting personalities with different experiences and I found that wonderful. Also different methods in working with kids appeared in those two weeks, but that's the only way to move on and to do all the best for the children. Presentations of each country really helped to taste, to feel, to hear other cultures. That was crazy 😊

P.S. thank YOU for everything
